

Fashion Show and Living Museum

Host a fashion show or living museum to highlight how Girl Scout uniforms have changed over the years.

Living Museum

- Fashion Trunk: Borrow the fashion trunk from your local service center. It is filled with uniforms that can be used in your living museum.
- Select a Uniform or Person: Each girl should select a uniform from the trunk or can select to portray a person from Girl Scout history. There should not be duplicates as the idea is for everyone to learn something new.
- Research the Uniform or Person You Chose: Take some time to research the uniform (what years was it worn? What were Girl Scouts doing during those years) or person (what did this person typically dress like, what were their hobbies, etc).
- Choose Who Will Be The Photographer: The photographer is there to capture the moments of history coming to life. These pictures can then be shared with other Girl Scouts to teach them about how uniforms (and Girl Scouts) have changed through the years.
- Invite Guests: Decide who will be in your audience – friends, family, fellow Girl Scout sisters?
- Put On the Show: Once each girl has prepared her “exhibit” for the museum, it’s time to invite the audience to “walk through history.”

Fashion Show

- Fashion Trunk: Borrow the fashion trunk from your local service center. It is filled with uniforms that can be modeled in your fashion show.
- Set the Stage: In order to have a fashion show, there must be a stage.
- Choose Who Will Model: When planning your fashion show, you’ll need to have the girls select who will model which uniforms.
- Choose Who Will Emcee: The emcee will give a brief description of each uniform along with what level and when it was worn.
- Choose Who Will Be The Photographer: The photographer is there to capture the moments the models walk the stage. These pictures can then be shared with other Girl Scouts to teach them about how uniforms have changed through the years.
- Invite Guests: Decide who will be in your audience – friends, family, fellow Girl Scout sisters?
- Put On the Show: Once the uniforms are ready and the stage is set, it's time to put on the show.
